

Two paper fortune tellers for asking simple questions

To make them:

Cut out all four sides of the perimeter of the Fortune Teller.

Fold them. Elsewhere on the website you will find illustrated folding directions. Start folding with the printed side facing down.

Ways to use them:

Unlike traditional paper fortune tellers, these are not used for pretend fortune telling. These are for helping children, working in pairs, to work on the skills of asking, and responding to, simple questions.

Suggested game format:

1. Child number one says, "Spell your name." For each letter, the child holding the Fortune Teller manipulates the device back and forth.
2. Child number two is then shown the two options appearing on the inner triangles. Child one says, "Pick which one you want- What is your favorite or Where do you..." Child two picks, "What is your favorite."
3. Child one opens up the innermost flaps, where four options appear. He asks, "Pick A, B, C or D." Child two picks C. Child one asks, "What is your favorite food?"

I hope you find these things useful. There are lots more of them on the website.
